

CHROMOSOME (Parody of Paul Simon's "Kodachrome")

When you think back
On all the crap you learned in high school
It's a wonder you can think at all
And though your lack of education
Broke your compass, son
You can read the Bible and be warned

Chromosome
You can become a tranny
But grampa Jenner won't become a granny
Just cause the world says it okay to be gay
Procedures and pills won't hide ya
X and Y or double X inside ya
Cause God won't take your chromosome away

If you took all the 'girls' who knew they started out as dudes their mutilated frames for all to see You'd have a bunch of dudes with vain imaginations
Hating God for what they really be

Chromosome
You see the God who made ya
Has given you his word and that forbade ya
From carving around and using Mary Kay, oh ya
Procedures and pills won't hide ya
X and Y or double X inside ya
Cause God won't take your chromosome away

God won't take your chromosome away
God won't take your chromosome away
God won't take your chromosome away
God won't take your chromosome
You're what you were from the womb
God won't take your chromosome away